YOU KISSED ME.

(This poem was written in 1867 by Miss Celia Gardener, a lady under 20 years of age. James Redpath, the historian, thought so much of the poem that he had an edition printed on white satio. John G. Whittier wrote of it and its young author that she had truly mastered the secret of English.)

You kissed me! My head Dropped low on your breast With a feeling of shelter And infinite rest,

While the holy emotions My tongue dared not speak Flashed up in a flame From my heart to my cheek. Your arms held me fast;

Oh! your arms were so bold, Heart beat against heart In their passionate fold. Your glances seemed drawing My soul through my eyes

As the sun draws the mist From the sea to the skies. Your lips clung to mine Till I prayed in my bliss They might never unclasp From the rapturous kiss.

You kissed me! My heart, And my breath, and my will, In delirious joy
For a moment stood still,

Life had for me then No temptations, no charms No visions of happiness Outside of your arms, And were I this instant

An angel, possessed Of the peace and the joy That are given the blest, I would fling my white robes

Unrepiningly down, I would tear from my forehead Its beautiful crown. To nestle once more In that baven of rest-

Your lips upon mine, My head on your breast. You kissed me! My soul, In a bliss so divine. Reeled and swooned like a drunk-

Foolish with wine, And I thought 'twere delicious To die there, if death Would but come, while my lips Were yet moist with your breath;

If I might grow cold While your arms clasp me round In their passionate fold. And these are the questions

I ask day and night; Must lips taste no more Such exquisite delight? Would you care if your breast

Were my shelter as then, And if you were here Would you kiss me again?

California-the Land of Sunshine, Fruit and Flowers.

The Midwinter Exposition, already much talked of, bids fair to rival the great fair that has just closed at Chicago, Not in size, perhaps, but certainly so in originality, in richness, and in delighted visitors, who will unanimously agree that the Pacific Coast is worth many times the time and money spent to visit it, in its return of delightful climate, mellow sunlight, wondrous growth of vegetation, and the heretofore unheard of net-work of industries connected with fruit raising, and the shipping of the product. In order to give an opportunity for everybody to visit this wonderland during the Exposition, California rates via the Queen & Crescent route have been reduced, and every one may find the cost of such a trip within his means. As for equipment, it is the only line by which you can travel from Cincinnati to San Francisco, absolutely without change. Mr. J. P. Blaize, an extensive real estate dealer in Des Moines, Iowa, narrowly escaped one of the severest attacks of pneumonia while in the northern part of that State during a recent blizzard, says the Saturday Review. Mr. Blaize had occasion to drive several miles during the storm and was so thoroughly chilled that he was unable to get warm, and inside of an hour after his return he was threatened with a severe case of pneumonia or lung fever. Mr. Blaize sent to the nearest drug store and got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, of which he had often heard, and took a number of large doses. He says the effect was wonderful and in a short time he was breathing quite easily. He kept on taking the medicine and the next day was able to come to Des Moines. CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Popic For the Week Beginning Jan. 7. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle. Topic.-Beginnings. (A special grayer servke.) John i, 1-17.

Beginnings is a very appropriate topic for the first week of the new year. The first chapter of John is also a very good chapter on beginnings. It speaks of the existence of the Word in the beginning, recalling the creation of the earth in the beginning. This chapter also records the beginnings of the work of the Messiah among men. For the first time He is publicly proclaimed as the Messiah. For the first time disciples believe upon Him. For the first time men are led to Him by others, and in the beginning of the chapter following we have the first miracle at Cana of Galilee, which is called the beginning of the signs, or miracles, which Jesus wrought. Considering our topic practically and separate from the text, we should remember that: 1. Everything must have a beginning. The Word or the Saviour was in the beginning, and therefore having existed from all eternity. He is an exception to this rule. But the world had a beginning. There was a time when it did not exist, and therefore it began to exist-"in the beginning God created the heavens and the earth." The miracles of Christ also had a beginning -"this beginning of miracles did Jesus in Cana of Galilee." All things must have a beginning. If we would surrender ourselves to God, if we would undertake new lives of Christian work and advance toward Christ and heaven, we must begin this work, and the present is the best time for beginning. 2. Beginnings are necessarily small, but not to be despised. The first attempts of the child to walk are often utter failures, but nothing daunted he keeps at his task until perfection has been reached. The first steps in any new walk are necessarily weak and feeble.

The first efforts at serving God, the first efforts at public prayer, the first attempts to overcome temptation, how weak and feeble they may all be! But yet we should never be discouraged. Our faith may only be like the mustard seed at the start, but it will grow and become intelligent and strong by exercise. Our love will become more constant and enduring; our prayers may become more effective and availing. Instead of despising the day of beginnings, let us be encouraged in them, remembering the words of our Father in heaven, "I will settle you after your old estates and will do better unto you than at your beginnings, and ye shall know that I am the Lord."

Another in Maryland has raised $340, with which it has changed the Sunday school room of its great deal of charitable work among the poor, and last spring paid the expenses of two weeks of evangelistic servces. Still another secured an evangelist and held three weeks' evangelistic services, in the course of which 40 were won for Christ.

The Lesson of the Sunbeam.

"What's the use?" asked a sunbeam as it saw that a black, cold office lay cold, bare spot. Why did the great sun send me here?" Points to Consider.

In an article on Christian Endeavor work for good citizenship published in the Chicago Union, three points are made-that Endeavorers should read a good daily paper; that their business meetings should be conducted strictly according to parliamentary law, and that in connection with every Christian Endeavor society should be a literary society. These are all good points, provided they are not covered by other agencies than the Christian Endeavor society, but the good citizenship work Dr. Clark urged at Montreal is chiefly work along moral lines, such as temperance and political reforms and reforms in social life.

Millennial Musings.

Oh, when will dawn that joyful day Foreseen by prophet's ken, When love shall rend the veil away That hides God's face from men;

When war's destructive march will ceas And 'neath His oriflamme, Together shall lie down in peace The lion and the lamb?

Freed from the deadly serpent's fear, The weaned child shall play. And o'er the fields long brown and sere, Bloom the bright flowers of May.

Then Jew and Gentile will arise. And unto Zion throng And sing, as pilgrims to the skies, The everlasting song.

There they'll behold emblazoned wide The sacrificial sign, And Him whom hate once crucified, In robes of honor shine.

Lord, hasten on that glorious hour, That promise not in vain.
When every curse will lose its power. And Christ the Saviour reign.
